March guest speaker Randy Miller tells us the history and importance of the Bonnet Carré Spillway and how it helps the oil and gas industry. Here he is demonstrating some real Mississippi River water—diverted during the recent high river levels. Floods have damaged refineries and chemical plants along the river and the Spillway is an important part of the Army Corps of Engineers' efforts to control the river and keep our homes and industry safe.

BE PREPARED FOR A HURRICANE

Threats from hurricanes include powerful winds, heavy rainfall, storm surges, coastal and inland flooding, rip currents, tornadoes, and landslides.

FEMA
FEMA V-1006 / May 2018

Hurricanes are massive storm systems that form over warm ocean waters and move toward land. The Atlantic hurricane season runs June 1 to November 30. The Pacific hurricane season runs May 15 to November 30.

Can happen along any U.S. coast or territory in the Atlantic or Pacific

Can affect areas more than 100 miles inland

Most active in September

IF YOU ARE UNDER A HURRICANE WARNING, FIND SAFE SHELTER RIGHT AWAY

Determine your best protection for high winds and flooding.

Evacuate if told to do so.

Take shelter in a designated storm shelter or an interior room for high winds.

Listen for emergency information and alerts.

Only use generators outdoors and away from windows.

Do not walk, swim, or drive through flood waters.

HOW TO STAY SAFE WHEN A HURRICANE THREATENS

Know your area's risk of hurricanes.

Sign up for your community's warning system. The Emergency Alert System (EAS) and National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Weather Radio also provide emergency alerts.

If you are at risk for flash flooding, watch for signs such as heavy rain.

Practice going to a safe shelter for high winds, such as a FEMA safe room or ICC 500 storm shelter. The next best protection is a small, interior, windowless room in a sturdy building on the lowest level that is not subject to flooding.

Based on your location and community plans, make your own plans for evacuation or sheltering in place.

Become familiar with your evacuation zone, the evacuation route, and shelter locations.

Gather needed supplies for at least three days. Keep in mind each person's specific needs, including medication. Don't forget the needs of pets.

Keep important documents in a safe place or create password-protected digital copies.

Protect your property. Declutter drains and gutters. Install check valves in plumbing to prevent backups. Consider hurricane shutters. Review insurance policies.

If told to evacuate, do so immediately. Do not drive around barricades.

If sheltering during high winds, go to a FEMA safe room, ICC 500 storm shelter, or a small, interior, windowless room or hallway on the lowest floor.

If trapped in a building by flooding, go to the highest level of the building. Do not climb into a closed attic. You may become trapped by rising flood water.

Listen for current emergency information and instructions.

Use a generator or other gasoline-powered machinery ONLY outdoors and away from windows.

Do not walk, swim, or drive through flood waters. Turn Around. Don't Drown.* Just six inches of fast-moving water can knock you down, and one foot of moving water can sweep your vehicle away.

Stay off bridges over fast-moving water.

Listen to authorities for information and special instructions.

Be careful during clean-up. Wear protective clothing and work with someone else.

Do not touch electrical equipment if it is wet or if you are standing in water. If it is safe to do so, turn off electricity at the main breaker or fuse box to prevent electric shock.

Avoid wading in flood water, which can contain dangerous debris. Underground or downed power lines can also electrically charge the water.

Save phone calls for emergencies. Phone systems are often down or busy after a disaster. Use text messages or social media to communicate with family and friends.

Document any property damage with photographs. Contact your insurance company for assistance.

Take an Active Role In Your Safety

April 2019

This past month has been a very busy one. There has been a lot of planning going on to host the regional meetings. As far as the regions are concerned, we open a new chapter this year with having the four new regions as opposed to seven. You don't want to miss out on attending the very first meeting of your new region. Also, consider attending another regional meeting besides your own; it is the perfect opportunity to meet new people and gain "greater knowledge" so that you may provide "greater service".

All of the club presidents have received the proposed amendments. There are five proposed bylaw amendments and five proposed standing rules amendments. You will have the opportunity to discuss these at Open Forum at your region meetings as well as at your regular monthly meetings. Come to Convention informed and educated so the best decisions can be made for our Association.

Remember that all clubs must submit a TAXE-1 form to Bonnie Fish, bfishcpa@suddenlink.net, Tax Exempt chairman. Deadline to submit the form is May 15, 2019.

It is also time to think about where you are now and where you want to be next year. Your club president has received the nominating information from the Nominating Committee chairman, Linda Rodgers. The deadline for nominations to the ADDC Board is June 7, 2019. We have so many talented members who are more than qualified to be a part of the ADDC Board. Be courageous -- take that next step.

We did get the ADO moved this last month to our new management company, Charity Rising, in Paris, Texas. They are in the process of updating and getting all of our current information on the website. This is quite a task; please be patient. I am very excited about this new direction for our Association and I hope you are as well.

Visit KC!!

That is what your 2019 GAC Committee has been doing! As mentioned in previous reports, we have been living it up planning an amazing Convention for you! We have started narrowing down our plans and everything is coming together perfectly!

Our host hotel, the Marriott Kansas City Country Club Plaza, is anxiously awaiting our arrival. The hospitality is off the charts! When you arrive for your fun filled weekend, you will be greeted by the Hotel lab KC and his wiggly tail. The adjoining guest rooms will make traveling in groups a cinch! We have secured a very reasonable rate of $169.00 per night for a single, double, triple or quad.

We have begun the process of narrowing down the endless field trip opportunities. Some places we are considering include the University of Kansas Chemical and Petroleum Engineering Department, Southwind Drilling and the Hallmark Visitor's Center. Would you like to learn about the fuel reclamation process? KC has a place for that. The WWI Museum is one of the top rated museums in the nation. Not only will you experience the US' involvement in World War I, but you will also learn all sides of the conflict as you walk through each country's timeline. What about a 55,000,000 sq ft man made cave in bluffs over the Missouri River? There is also the Harley Davidson Factory, the Royals and Chiefs Stadium Tours, and whiskey distilleries. There are countless local craft breweries that are tons of fun, believe me... we've been checking them out for you!

Feel free to bring a friend or 2 with you to Kansas City. We will be offering a Guest Field Trip, so they are not left out while we are taking care of business. There will be a fun filled adventure complete with transportation and meals available!

While you are in town, we will make sure you have the opportunity to check out the Power and Lights District which is the self-proclaimed heartbeat of Kansas City. This new nine block area with more than 50 restaurants, bars, shops and entertainment venues offers something for everyone.

What would a visit to Kansas City be without some barbeque and jazz? Well that's what we will be partaking in at the Friday night social! We have planned true KC BBQ and live music experience at the American Jazz Museum, where you can learn about the beginning of jazz as we know it!

So be sure to mark your calendars for September 18 – 21, 2019 for a swinging good time in Kansas City, Missouri. Until then, stay tuned, my friends for the continued unraveling of what is sure to be a convention that ranks off the charts!

See you soon!

Terrebonne Parish Won't Sue Oil and Gas Industry

(source: growlouisianacoalition.com)

Terrebonne Parish will not sue the oil and gas industry for wetlands damage despite Gov. John Bel Edwards encouraging coastal parishes to do so.

On Wednesday, Edwards said if parishes do not file lawsuits, then the state will on their behalf and is sending them letters to that effect.

Parish President Gordy Dove said he received Terrebonne's letter on Thursday evening.

"They want all the parishes to file a suit in which Department of Natural Resources Secretary Thomas Harris will then intervene, and should you not do so in 30 days from the date of this letter then Secretary Harris will do it," Dove said of the letter.

While Lafourche Parish has also indicated it won't sue the industry, Plaquemines, Cameron, Jefferson and Vermillion parishes have filed suits. Dove said other parishes should see how the cases in Jefferson and Plaquemines proceed.

"To sue an industry that's Terrebonne's bread and butter and Lafourche's bread and butter, we shouldn't sue any industry until investigation is done," Dove said. "This is a money grab by a handful of trial attorneys who have one thing in mind. They think that they'll make a lot of money, but what happens to Terrebonne and Lafourche? This is not going to get solved overnight."

Terrebonne and Lafourche previously hired attorneys to investigate legal action, but neither filed suit.

During a June Lafourche Parish Council meeting, Gerald Block of Block Law Firm said if a state entity files on behalf of Lafourche instead of the parish filing suit, then the parish would only get a portion of the damages.

Dove said that he did not find that to be true. He added that if a parish filed suit and loses, which he thinks it would, it could be left with "millions and millions of dollars" in legal costs.

Lafourche Parish President Jimmy Cantrelle could not be reached for comment Thursday night.

“I would like to make it clear that Lafourche Parish has no intention of filing suit against any oil company,” Cantrelle previously said. “We have never considered joining or filing a lawsuit. The council was simply asked to retain legal representation to assist in quantifying potential damages the parish may have incurred through coastal use permits and activities associated with them. The parish needs to preserve its rights should the State of Louisiana bring forward some sort of settlement with the energy industry and retaining counsel allows us to preserve those rights.”

The Louisiana Oil and Gas Association and the Louisiana Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association issued a joint statement against Edwards’ position.

“The reality is the administration already has every tool it needs to protect the coast,” the statement read in part. “The State and Local Coastal Resources Management Act provides for an exhaustive set of fines and penalties that can be levied by the Department of Natural Resources to enforce the terms of state issued permits. But issuing fines and penalties for alleged violations, as the department is required to do by state law, doesn’t produce billions in legal fees.”

“Whatever their outcome, these lawsuits are not a funding mechanism for state or local government budgets and they will not help protect the coast,” the statement adds. “On the contrary, they divert critical time and resources away from the industry’s support of Louisiana’s coastal restoration efforts, which have been underway for decades.”

The associations said the oil and natural gas industry is the largest private investor in the state’s coast. And working with the industry’s companies would be more productive than a legal battle.

Susan Miller and Judi Adams attended the event to assist with checking in attendees and supporting the award winners, Shell retiree Cathy McRae and Westbank member Charles Miller.
